

Accellient Partners, LLC is a fully integrated and dedicated team of deeply experienced drug development, regulatory and business professionals. Our team designs, implements and manages the strategic, tactical, and regulatory-driven product development needs of business leaders and investors in the biotechnology and pharmaceutical industry. Accellient's development model leverages know-how, technology and business experience to:

- Minimize program risks and lower costs to improve ROI;
- Accelerate development timelines via tailored development plans; and
- Start, raise funds for and manage new biotech companies.

We develop and manage programs from late discovery through IND submission and Phase 2. Our approach enables business leaders and investors to fully assess all risk factors and their impact on probabilities of success for both projects and platform technologies to support major investment and infrastructure decisions.

Accellient partners with clients in all major biotech and biopharma markets. We provide core technical drug development expertise and an extensive network of expert affiliates, key opinion leaders and proven service providers that complement your discovery, development and management team. We file numerous INDs each year and have significant experience working with all divisions of the FDA to streamline the complex electronic submission process.

Our validated approach helps you establish parameters of value and measure those values against your program performance and milestones. Fully integrated program services, including vendor costs, from manufacturing, nonclinical and IND submission through Phase 1, typically run from $3.5 million to $5.0 million for most small molecule projects and are delivered in nine to 18 months. For the lowest possible cost and shortest timeline, Accellient will guide your company to its next financeable milestone or exit. We offer a creative and flexible fee for service cost model with equity-based compensation options...that is, we will share the risk with you on select projects.

Accellient offers an efficient and cost effective approach and strives to be the biopharmaceutical and investment industries' virtual drug development partner of choice.
